Shantanand Saraswati

Since time immemorial spiritual masters have taught through parable and myth because it is a simple way of making the principles of truth easily accessible. Such tales reverberate in our minds and gradually influence the way we think and act. They give delight, yet they also help us understand what is important in life and what is transitory. They speak directly to the heart.

Here, collected together for the first time, are the universally applicable teaching stories of His Holiness Shantananda Saraswati, Shankaracharya of Jyotir Math in Northern India from 1953 until his retirement in 1980. His Holiness comes from the ancient Advaita or nondualist tradition of knowledge and meditation and is one of India's greatest living saints. He continues the work of his predecessor, His Holiness Brahmananda Saraswati (Gurudeva), in making mantra meditation available to people of many religious traditions.

His Holiness Shantananda Saraswati explains the meaning of each story with appealing and subtle simplicity, making clear how practical his teaching is and how his understanding and advice about birth and death, desire and attachment, illusion and discrimination, meditation and prayer, can be immediately applied to every moment of our lives.
